Professional and Research Interests

- I have more than three decades of experience in teaching, public speaking, research, and legal practice. My work focuses on three core areas: international arbitration and transnational litigation; the intersection of dispute resolution and new technologies; and the fight against corruption. These interests extend to broader questions of legal and institutional reform, private ordering, the globalization of the legal professions, and legal education.
- My academic work examines how culture, social norms, and economic and political forces shape the genesis and operation of law. While I maintain a particular focus on Latin America, much of my work addresses questions that transcend geographical boundaries. I have taught, conducted research, spoken, and consulted throughout the Americas, Europe, Asia, and Africa.
- In my professional practice, I serve as an international arbitrator and as a foreign law expert in transnational disputes. In addition to this practice, I bring several years of successful leadership and administrative experience in legal education and in professional and academic societies. I am fluent in English and Spanish, with working knowledge of Italian and Portuguese.
